

The Institute of World Culture Presents

A Dramatic Reading of an Original Play

Illuminations

Playwright
Robert I. Reynolds

Saturday, May 6, 2006 2:00–4:30 pm
1407 Chapala Street, Santa Barbara

This play suggests the compatibility of science and religion that flourished in Islamic cultures during an age of enlightenment around 1000 CE. Set in New Cairo, the play's heroes, Avicenna, The Price of Physicians, and Alhazen, founder of classical physics, meet the female Sufi teacher Fatima al-Kashf, and do battle for their souls, armed only with the belief that there are no greater human qualities than love, freedom of mind and a courageous sense of humor.

Institute of World Culture
Concord House, 1407 Chapala Street, Santa Barbara.
For information: 805/967-7023 <http://www.worldculture.org>